

Comments from the Readers'/Writers' Group in Penwith, Cornwall

Clare I really admire you for writing this book and really do think it has a lot to say. Thank you.

Pippa The book is nicely written and one definitely gets the feeling of a Pilgrim's progress towards knowledge and a healthy distrust of the status quo.

Roy First, I have to congratulate you on your insight of the right-wing mindset. This is much the same as mine although I could not express it in such an erudite manner. The idea of a political pilgrim being guided through the quagmire of contemporary government is quite novel and an excellent method of depicting the global predicament. Your list of references lends, no! gives, an authority to your 'interpreter' that is irrefutable.